This New Plant Is Your Plant;
Made Possible
By You

THIS is a very difficult time to write an editorial. It is in a way a birthday with us, for it is our first day in our new building. However, we must not let anything stand in the way of writing because we feel keenly the obligation we owe to you and all the rest of our subscribers. It is you who have made this new plant of ours possible. You have put up with our faults, recognizing that we had the desire to serve you, but our equipment was inadequate to meet the demands made upon it.

WE fully appreciate the fact that at times our papers were delivered too late to read, which of course was aggravation enough to justify the stopping of the paper. You were charitable enough not to do this and in consequence of your loyalty we are now located in a new plant with everything necessary to publish a paper such as Glendale is entitled to.

WE also want to thank our advertisers for their consideration, for late papers undoubtedly reduced the value of their advertisements, and it was due to the fact that our circulation was large enough that the loss caused by its lateness in delivery was absorbed.

AFTER today we can promise you an early delivery of your paper every night and a paper heavy enough to satisfy the most particular. With a direct wire of the Associated Press and with the additional service of the United Press, which is second only to the Associated Press as a news-gathering agency, we are prepared to furnish our readers all the world news that is fit to print.

AS in the past, all events of sufficient interest to our readers to justify it, we will cover with a direct wire and megaphone service, either in front of our building or in our hall, which is located on the second floor, and which was built for the purpose of serving you better.

FROM now on we pledge service to our patrons with untiring energy, enthusiastic desire, backed with unsurpassed equipment and in return request the continuance of your loyal patronage.

THE GLENDALE DAILY PRESS MOVES TO ITS NEW HOME 333 NORTH BRAND BOULEVARD

Largest Press Outside of Los Angeles Begins Turning Out Fastest Growing Newspaper in the Fastest Growing City in the United States

LAST EDITION IN THE OLD PLANT

Friends and Subscribers Are Welcomed to View the Working of the New Equipment; Telephone Numbers Are Unchanged, 97

A switch pulled in the gallery overhead and a myriad of wheels on the big three-decker Goss press revolved in the press room today.

The Glendale Daily Press was off to a flying start in growth in its new home, 333 North Brand boulevard, telephone, as usual, Glendale 97.

And when that press, the largest this side of Los Angeles, began to deliver today's issue of the Glendale Daily Press, like sheaves from a binder on a wheat field, the Glendale Daily Press employees, who had fought the Glendale Daily Press to supremacy during three years of service, breathed sighs of relief. It had been worth the service, worth the work.

The Glendale Daily Press is at home, informally, to its friends and subscribers today, all this week, and all the time thereafter.

Although the adjustment to the new quarters is not complete, although everyone is not adjusted to his or her permanent place in the ultimate scheme of things, everybody will be glad to welcome everybody.

The work of moving the plant began immediately after the last sheet of the Saturday edition was turned off the old duplex press.

The old press, with its troubles, its problems, long overstrained by the mounting circulation, was abandoned in the old quarters. It was to have no part in the new order of things.

The last edition it turned out was, owing to the rush to move, the poorest the Glendale Daily Press was ever forced to deliver to subscribers.

The composing room started to move early in the morning. As fast as material could be dispensed with it was hauled to the new plant. The office equipment followed and in a continuous procession of trucks the Glendale Daily Press rolled northward on Brand boulevard.

All Saturday afternoon, far into the night, the assembling of equipment continued. Sunday afternoon was another period of adjustment and early this morning preparations for this issue were under way, from the big press, through the stereotype room, on through the ad alley, the composing room and the job printing.

Out in the front office the new desks shone optimistically up at the office and editorial staff. And the sunlight, never before available in such quantities, flooded over all, relieving strained tension and bringing forth the smile that is never going to come off.

Altogether, folks, it was a strenuous two days—seems almost a week.

But now—the decks are being cleared hourly for service in action, backed by the best equipped newspaper plant anywhere outside of Los Angeles, with floor space planned for growth and an organization and co-operation that mean no stop in the full service to Glendale.

LEGION POST FINDS BOUTS ARE POPULAR

Advanced Sale for Labor Day Is Gratifying

That local fight fans are eager to see the curtain raise on the American Legion wrestling and boxing show, to be staged Labor Day in the Press building auditorium by the local Legion post, is evidenced by the advance demand for tickets.

Seats for the Legion's premier show were placed on sale Saturday, according to Lester Marston, in charge of the advance sale, tickets are selling briskly. Tickets can be obtained at Nish's cigar store, Mahoney's cigar store, the Lunch Box, Pullman cafe and Jensen's Recreation center.

Judges for fight events were announced today by Commander Chalmers D. Day, as follows: H. M. Bennett, local investor, and Joe Holzman of the Glendale Dry Goods company.

Detective Sergeant Royal of the Glendale police department will be the announcer.

TUJUNJA MOON FETE ON AUG. 31

Third Annual Event to Be Given in the Green Verdugo Hills

FOR LEGION HOME

Open Air Dancing, Side Shows and Art Exhibition

Next Friday, August 31, will mark the opening of the third annual Moon Festival of the Tujunga, to be held in the Garden of the Moon, Tujunga, closing on the evening of Monday, September 3.

The event this year will be along the same lines as the festivals given previously, and will be under the auspices of Monte Vista post 250, American Legion, which will apply the proceeds on the debt for their hall and meeting place. Many people from Glendale and vicinity who have attended the other festivals know of the excellent character of the affairs, and are planning to go again this year.

In addition to a large number of rather out of the ordinary midway shows, there will be dancing on the ever-popular out-of-doors Garden of the Moon dance platform, every night except Sunday, and the large open air swimming plunge will be open at all times. Special features are being provided by a number of Tujunga people, one of which will be an exhibit of local art work at the just completed highway opposite the Garden of the Moon.

It is expected that members of the widely known Millionaires' Club of Happiness and Contentment will be present and perhaps issue a few drafts on the Bank of Joy to visitors who will promise to cash them.

For the children there have been provided a number of amusements, including a merry-go-round and other things to delight the hearts of the little ones, and it is expected that the festival will have just as good a time at the festival as will their elders.

The American Legion auxiliary will be in charge of the refreshment booth on the grounds, and will provide some of the delicious meals for which the ladies of the organization are so justly celebrated.

The drive up the Verdugo Road and west on the State highway to Tujunga is delightful on one of the little ones, and it is believed that the festival will draw an even greater number of people from Glendale and the San Fernando valley this year than ever before.

AUTO COLLISIONS OF THE WEEK-END

Quite a grist of minor motor accidents which had happened in Glendale were turned in to the city hall Sunday. George Ellingwood Joy who said he was proceeding to Los Angeles in an orderly and perfectly correct manner on Brand boulevard within two feet of the right curb, came to grief through the son of H. H. Faries who was driving a Nash car 20 feet ahead near the center of the street. He turned abruptly into a driveway without signalling, according to Joy, and the latter couldn't avoid hitting him. The running board and fender of the Faries car was damaged, the front right wheel of the Joy car twisted, and bumper bent.

Dave Roberts of 410 Maple street, who was driving his brother's car on Los Feliz, blames two watermelons for some of his troubles. They were on the floor of a coupe which was being driven by a lady behind him. He had stopped to allow the traffic to go on and the watermelon lady ran into him. A fender was spoiled and a brand new tire torn by the compact.

Floyd E. Eberhart of Arrowhead Springs driving on Colorado at 7 p. m. started to turn, giving the proper signal, and a car going at 20 to 25 miles per hour hit him amidships and smashed the running board.

William R. McDowell of Eagle Rock suffered at Glorieta and Verdugo when a car ahead backed into him and stove in the radiator and bent the left fender. The offender pulled right out and didn't stop to see what the effect had been.

Walter Jones of 312 W. Vine had the car in which he was riding struck at Colorado and Louise. He was going at 5 miles an hour.

GLENDALERS BEATS KING SOAPERS

Before a large crowd yesterday at the home field at Park avenue and San Fernando road the Glendale team pulled the unexpected and beat the strong White King soap team of Los Angeles 3 to 2 in one of the most thrilling contests seen this year. The big thrill and the big excitement came in the last of the ninth inning when Glendale pulled one of the best ninth innings ever seen here. In this last big inning the score was 2 to 1, favoring the visitors. Shridler, the first man up, struck out. Walt Heidler got hit with a pitched ball, taking first base. Pepper then singled to center. With both first and second bases occupied the visitors' second baseman made a wild throw over third, advancing Walt to third and Pepper to second. Wilson, the next man up, struck out, making two outs. Acosta then came to bat. With two strikes on this player, Walt Heidler decided to take a big chance and made a dash for the plate and was safe, the catcher dropping the ball. Pepper took third on the play. With the score tied at 2 to 2 Acosta then smashed the next ball for a glorious triple, scoring Pepper and winning the game. Some thrill! Some game!

Slam Harris, on the mound for the locals, pitched a wild game, losing six free passes but this all happened when it didn't hurt much. In the pinches he pitched perfect ball. The Glendale team started at all times, and put up a big game. Acosta, Geo. Harrison, Ward and Shridler played a great game for the locals, while Seals, the visitors' short stop, played best for the locals.

VALUABLE PRIZES AT ELKS CIRCUS

Two Days' Event Draws Good Crowd of Fun Making

Glendale Elks and their men friends enjoyed hugely the indoor circus staged Friday and Saturday at the local clubhouse on Colorado street for the benefit of the band fund. The purpose was to raise funds to send the band to the Elks state convention at Eureka, beginning September 13.

On Saturday night the drawings were made for about twenty-five prizes. The four big prizes were awarded as follows: Dr. Floyd Thompson, beautiful diamond-set Elks charm, made by the firm of James Appfel, exalted ruler of the club; Victoria, won by Joseph Fortunato; overstuffed chair, won by Stanley Frest; set of dishes, won by Ed Lawrence.

The other prizes included tires and other useful articles. A number of the prizes had been donated by members of the lodge and merchants of Glendale.

On Saturday night there was an athletic program staged, with several rounds of boxing.

Commission Asked for Grade Crossing

Leslie Tarr, assistant city attorney of Glendale, has filed application with the Railroad Commission for grade crossings at Justin avenue, Kentworth, and Concord streets over the Burbank line of the P. E. So many large residential tracts are being put upon the market in that part of the city it is felt the traffic demands more cross streets.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC TAKES OUT PERMIT FOR ITS NEW STATION AT CERRITOS AVE.

Spanish Type of Building, 208 by 36 Feet, Concrete Estimated to Cost $30,000, Is First Unit to Be Built

SWELLS MONTH'S TOTAL TO $731,000

Part of Material Is on the Ground Ready for Action by the Contractor; Railroad to Do Own Construction Work

The big event of the day on Saturday at the building department of the city hall was the issuance of a permit for the erection of a depot by the Southern Pacific railroad on its right of way at the end of Cerritos.

It is to be built by the company and to be of reinforced concrete with stucco exterior and one-story Spanish type, with tiled roof, and to cost $30,000.

Since the plans were first drafted Glendale has grown so much that the structure will be larger than first intended, measuring 208 by 36 feet.

Part of the material is already on the ground and it is expected that actual construction work will begin without delay.

The news of the issuance of the permit has caused great rejoicing in that part of the city where it is believed the new depot will prove an asset of great value in a business way, and that the favorable impression it will make upon tourists will incline them to further investigate the city as a place of residence.

This big addition to other permits swelled the total for the month to $731,653 and brought the total for the year to nearly six and a half millions, or $6,465,624.

FINE PROGRAM TO CLOSE BUSINESS WOMEN'S PARTY

Entertainment After Dinner to Be Worth While Hearing

The after dinner program of the social meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club which is meeting Tuesday night at the Egyptian cafe for a dinner to be served at 6:30 is providing a wonderful entertainment in the form of pictures by Southern California artists was on display.

Swimming and bathing were in order and tramping the beach and in the evening came the beautiful out-of-door pageant, staged by the Laguna Art club representing the Creation, according to Greek mythology.

The epochs represented were "Chaos," "Night," "Morning," "Procession of the Gods," "Creation of Man" and the "Golden Age." Costumes were lovely and the effect was charming.

Eight or ten members had engaged reservations through Mrs. Ballagh and remained for the night, the delegation including Mr. and Mrs. John Cotton, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schwartz, Misses Annie and Edith McIntyre, Miss Alice Livesey, Mrs. Church, L. T. Rowley, Mrs. and Mrs. Marsh, Mrs. Armstrong.

Sunday morning the party was entertained at two of the leading studios of Laguna, that of the well-known artist, Karl Yens, and that of Mr. Cuprien, whose specialty is marines. He proved a charming host and gave quite a talk on art though an entirely informal one.

Those who had spent the night returned to Glendale Sunday afternoon and report a delightful outing in all respects.

CHARLTONS FIND GLENDALERS BEST

After an absence of three months, during which he has been associated with his father in Los Angeles, H. D. Charlton, architect, has reopened his office at 111-A East Broadway. His father, H. Charlton has severed his connections in Los Angeles and located in the office here. While attempting to convince his son that Los Angeles presents the better field for architectural work, H. W. Charlton was himself won over to the possibilities in Glendale. He is a certified architect, having been engaged in the work for over thirty eight years. H. D. Charlton is well known here.

BURGLAR IS SCARED AWAY

At 11:10 Sunday night George Hyne of 343 West Doran reported robbers in his house. Officer Booth at police headquarters responded to the call and found an entrance had been effected through the screen porch. The robber had made his escape, however, before the officer arrived and apparently nothing had been taken.

S. P. ANNOUNCES NEW GIRL STAR IN 'MICHAEL O'HALLORAN'

T. H. Williams, Assistant General Manager, Issues Statement

Construction of a new Southern Pacific freight and passenger station at the foot of Cerritos avenue will begin immediately. The permit was secured Saturday at Glendale.

This was announced by T. H. Williams, assistant general manager of the company, who stated that with the approval of the station plans by the State Railroad Commission, work will now be carried on to completion.

"The new station building which will be fireproof and constructed of concrete will be one of the most modern and attractive structures on the railroad's Pacific System lines. The architecture will be of the old Spanish renaissance type. The building will be 164 feet in length and 27 feet in width and equipped with all modern facilities for the efficient handling of freight and passenger business.

"There will be an attractively decorated waiting room; a modern women's rest room fitted with tiled floor; a freight and storage room 59 feet by 22 feet with adequate sidings and spur tracks.

"The architectural scheme of the station will be carried out even to the station signs and platform lamps which will be ornately decorated in true Spanish style. The station furniture will also be specially designed to conform to the general plan.

"It is expected that the new station will be completed about January 1, 1924.

"The new station will be exceptionally well fitted to handle the ever increasing growth of freight business in and out of Glendale, as well as the passenger traffic of this city, Pasadena, Hollywood and Eagle Rock. It is in recognition of this growth that the Southern Pacific has decided to construct such an elaborate, modern station."

TRYING TO PREVENT LIES IN FIGURES

GENEVA, Aug. 27 (U. P.)—For the purpose of keeping statistics "true" and "accurate," as they have in the past, the International Labor Bureau has just summoned an international conference of statistics to be held at Geneva, October 29.

Some sixty odd nations, constituting virtually every nation in the world that is sufficiently advanced in its system of administration as to keep statistics, are expected to have delegations present.

The fundamental purpose of the conference is to arrive at a common basis of labor statistics for all countries. The International labor bureau has found that this is necessary if there is ever to be established any effective basis for a scientific international study of labor and social problems.

SNAKE FISH STORY IS SOME STORY
MONTESANO, Wash., Aug. 27 (United Press).—This sounds like a fishy snake story, or a snake fish story—it's hard to tell just which, however, it is vouched for as true. An Aberdeen woman, fishing near here, landed a 10-inch trout, hurling it high on the bank as she jerked it from the stream. When she reached her piscatorial prize, she was amazed to find a big snake attempting to carry the fish away. Men-folk nearby responded to her calls for help, killed the snake and saved the trout for other diners.

With the announcement of the purchase of the City Dye Works by President W. B. Fishburn and associates, one of the largest deals of this kind in California was consummated. This purchase includes the home plant in Los Angeles, with all out-of-town branches. The Glendale branch is at 113½ South Orange street.

The City Dye Works now has new stockholders and a new board of directors. W. B. Fishburn, formerly of Fort Worth, Texas, is president and general manager. C. M. Brannon, formerly of Dallas, Texas, is secretary and treasurer.

The purchase price was approximately $500,000, and includes all lands and equipment maintained and operated by the City Dye Works.

Mr. Fishburn has had years of experience in Texas in the Dye business and has a national reputation. His business has always been built on the slogan, "Not How Cheap, but How Good."

In commenting on the sale, Mr. Fishburn said: "In succeeding Mr. J. J. Jenkins, both Mr. Brannon and myself want to back up his service and the high quality of work which has been rendered by him over a period of approximately twenty-three years. Our aim shall be to carry on this great industry and keep it in the front ranks where it belongs."

"Mr. C. M. Brannon, my associate and secretary-treasurer of the new organization, has had years of practical experience in the dyeing and dry-cleaning industry. Our out-of-town branches will have particular attention, with the full backing of this great organization."

"Coming into this great community, we feel the responsibility, but with the past splendid history of the City Dye Works and the loyalty of my associates, an even larger success is assured."

PIGS IS STILL PIGS

The other day a bank teller in a country town was summoned by telephone to go down to the railroad station and deliver four hundred dollars in bills to a depositor who was passing through but who did not have time to stop off and come up to the bank.

The teller was bonded, of course, "that" guarantees the bank against loss not only by embezzlement but also through carelessness. If he had lived in his grandfather's time he would have been vouched for only by the personal suretyship of a trusting relative of substance, and the only recourse in case he made away with funds would have been his uncle's shifting estate and the possibility that the local thief-detecting society on horseback might catch up with him. (This long sentence is not an aside, it contains the point of the story, which is that he was inclusively bonded.)

As the young man approached the station he had stowed away three of the bundles containing the bills in various pockets, but he held one in his hand. In the country the young ladies always turn out when the train comes in, supposedly to compare the specimens of the male sex who pass through the town with the somewhat limited local supply. The teller was probably aware of this fact, and so, probably to enhance his own importance (as a responsible citizen) (in their eyes), he gayly tossed a bundle containing one hundred dollars in bills into the air. Again and again he caught it, and the third time he did not catch it, and the package fell to the platform. A passing hog of the variety called razorback, because they are usually seen strutting themselves against the platform, was rambling by at the moment. He saw the package, whose green suggested nourishment, and naturally swallowed it.

The agonized teller hastily hunted up the owner of the animal, and made a hurried bargain for its purchase. He slew animal where he was and cut him open. But in the meantime nature had done her work, and the bundle was unrecognizable as money. The surety company was bound to pay the bank's claim. They probably recovered from the teller, who had learned the lesson suggested by the title of this story. As a curator of funds he also decided not to qualify further, as a juggler.

Truths in Epigram

A revolution is as natural a growth as an oak. —Phillips.

Reputation is an idle and most false imposition; oft got without merit and lost without deserving. —Shakespeare.

Slander, the foulest whelp of sin. —Pollock.

All rivers run to the sea yet the sea is not full. —Old Testament.

THE POSSIBLE COAL STRIKE

Two sets of men have been debating whether the conditions sure to result in a coal strike are a question in different form. "Is it our duty to paralyze industry?" "Shall we cause suffering and death to the innocent?" the real magnitude of their problem might have dawned upon them. The classes directly participating do not consider the public at all. They are thinking alone of their profits. For all they care, the public may freeze to death, or die of maladies due to cold. The thought in the minds of each faction is only as to the chance of stipulating wages and conditions of work, and wondering if they can force the members of the other faction to terms. Official cognizance has to be taken of a situation so fraught with peril. It is probable that the government may intervene to prevent widespread suffering, and yet if the strike were to become operative, loss and suffering could be reduced, not wholly avoided.

There was a time when mining operators had their own way. They could charge anything they pleased for coal. If the demands of the miners obliged them to add 5 cents per ton to cost of production, they charged the customer 50 cents more per ton. The public became aware and resentful. But the public does not assume to know who is right and who wrong in the present controversy. It knows only that somebody is wrong, and it desires the wrong-doing exposed and corrected. It is tired of being pounded by the bludgeons of labor and capital, doing their fighting over the shoulders of the helpless citizenry.

THE PHENOMENON OF COLD

Chicago and adjacent territory has been suffering from a cold wave. The temperature went lower than ever before recorded for the corresponding date. Summer cold does not have to be extreme in order to be disagreeable and injurious. That is to say, it may represent conditions that in winter would be hailed as balmy.

Correspondents say that damaging frosts never before had been known so early. Perhaps this is true concerning the region afflicted. There was a summer in New England, about 1816, which was not so warm. In Vermont there was no month not marked by frost and snow. Of the crops planted in mild intervals, none matured. Some residents were fearful that nature had abolished summer.

Scientists are endeavoring to explain how and why the recent visitation occurred. The task is difficult, and they are welcome to their labor, and entitled to satisfaction in the results. The fact remains that when a cold wave comes, it simply arrives. Same as to the conduct of the unseasonable hot wave. The sun is accused of not having done its full duty, and yet in many places it has been hotter than usual. People have to take the weather as they find it, or it finds them. There is no known method of regulating it yet. Nature is a fussy old thing, neither brutal nor kindly, but implacable.

"CHAOS AT HAND"

There is no more mischievous person than the one who preaches calamity. Such an individual is more likely to be the victim of stupidity than of any innate malevolence. His is the voice of the false prophet inciting to fears. He is, to the limit of his powers, setting up the condition of mind favorable to making his predictions come true. There is now a man proclaiming from the rostrum or pulpit, or whatever he may term it, that "chaos is at hand." To be sure, he adds the assurance, designed to be comforting, that there will be miraculous intervention, and that millions, emerging purified from their chaotic experience, are to live forever. This is comforting, however, only in case people have a desire to live forever here. There seems to most to be no basis for such desire.

That Europe is in a bad way no observant person may deny. The situation is appalling. The way out is not clear. That there is to be no way out, and that destructive war, with all nations "marching to Armageddon" is the inevitable eventuation, is the fantastic utterance of a zealot, blinded to all facts save such as seem to buttress his own position. Nations may be distressed; they may be conscious of wrongs, or they may imagine wrongs, in either case, being bitter and resentful. But the world is not insane. It is not bent on suicide. Adjustments there must be, and doubtless will be, but by methods framed by stern necessity. The idea of France and England engaged in a clash of arms in the near future, or for reasons that now exist, can not be entertained; the mind simply rejects it. Germany could not make war, whatever its inclination, but even Germany will survive. The vitality of its millions, crushed by circumstances, is not being exterminated. Far more natural than to assume chaos to be at hand would it be to look forward to the renewed reign of peace, marked by the coming of seedtime and harvest, with industry revived, and the nations once more happy and secure.

TRUTH IN ADVERTISING

The following is taken from an advertisement occupying a page, marked throughout by a fine spirit, and devotion to truth:

"Fundamentally, the country, from every standpoint so far as we can see, is sound when judged by the natural creation of wealth as it comes from the soil."

In another portion of the advertisement—which in reality is an editorial of high class—attention is called to the common expression of belief that ruin is to follow upon the failure of farmers to get an adequate price for wheat. The fact that farmers are not getting a fair price for this product will be generally admitted. It is unfortunate and unfair, but it is far from indicating dire catastrophe. There are corollary facts worth consideration, as set forth in the article already quoted in part.

Wheat represents about 6 per cent of the value of farm products. Only a small proportion of farmers depend entirely upon wheat. In the form of flour, bran and feed, farmers buy back, it is estimated, about half of the wheat they raise.

In many of the great wheat states this year the importance of the corn crop is the overshadowing feature of farming. Farmers who, had they relied on wheat alone, must have experienced grave loss, are finding a profit in corn. This makes it possible for them to hold back their wheat awaiting a better price. The likelihood of better price is discerned in the partial failure of the Canadian wheat crop.

Statesmen adopt certain specialties of belief. Some of them, aware that the situation of some farmers is not satisfactory, read in this circumstance a national calamity, a blow to industry, and the killing off of agriculture. Meanwhile the statesman who has concentrated his attention elsewhere, and finds his theories not acceptable, reads red ruin and such stuff, in conditions that exist very largely in his own mind.

As a matter of fact, and with due consideration of the most unhappily circumstanced classes of citizens, this country is doing pretty well. It is by all odds the most prosperous in the world. It still is the land of opportunity.

KIDS, ANIMALS AND VISITORS

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Why a child should be regarded as an interloper in the house of its parents or a pet an intruder in the house of its owner, is one of the dark points of psychology that will have to be illuminated by some yet to be discovered genius.

To a casual observer it appears that creatures that have been chosen by the owners of a home to live in that home should by rights be considered before those who come from the outside to abide for a time within the sheltering walls of a hospitable host.

Yet I find many visitors who, once they enter the door of a home, assume that everything inside that home must be changed to suit their tastes and prejudices.

Said a woman of my acquaintance recently to a friend who had invited her to visit her ranch: "Of course you will have to get rid of your cats. I detest them and could not possibly stay under the same roof with them."

Receiving no reply and feeling a decided fall an injured whine:

"Of course it's only a choice between me and those horrid cats."

No, it is a choice between my liberty and authority in my own home and your desire to usurp my prerogative. My invitation was extended on the assumption that you should come to my home as it is. I do not care to remake my life for the privilege of having you under my roof.

At this point the friendship exploded with a loud bang and the repulsed visitor declared that she had been "insulted." She had not; she had merely been given a much needed lesson in common courtesy.

But the worst offenders in such matters are the relatives of a family. I talked with a tearful and deeply rebellious maiden lady of 48. She was "off her brother for life" and denounced him as an unnatural creature and a cold blooded relative. The trouble was the brother's little son. The sister did not like children and had, on her own invitation, come to spend the winter with her brother, assuming that the child's activities would be so pedaled for her convenience. She resented all noise made by him, interfered with his pleasure when it disturbed her and finally, having made him dislike her, struck him for not obeying her.

The father explained, patiently at first and finally with firmness bordering on harshness that sister had come to the home of his son and if anybody exercised patience it must be the outsider. He did not himself strike his son and would permit no one else to do so. He pointed out that the child had been guilty of no misconduct and had done nothing but pursue the average activities of childhood.

"But you know," wailed his maiden sister, "that children drive me crazy."

"Then you should stay away from homes where they are," said her brother with curt truth.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

The Tim Terry scandal was revived this week when Tim came back to town on a visit. It begins to look as though Tim may have known more about his own case than we did. At any rate he says he is happy.

The only thing that could cast a cloud over my sun," he says, unpleasantly, "would be to listen to you poor old dodos."

It was a year ago that Tim dropped out. He had been doing fairly well in his line. That is, he had been keeping up his insurance policies, so that when he died his wife would have not quite enough to live on comfortably.

"I am out of place in a city," he said. "I belong in a small town. I'm small town people. It's a distinct breed, like rat terriers. I am unhappy in a city."

We thought it was his liver, and then a progressive deterioration of the more valuable elements in his bean, and then a despicable weakness. We sneered rather openly at Tim, as a man who could sneer rather openly at Tim, as a man who could live on better financially," he said. "I have saved money for the first time since I married. I had lived better. I have read more, broadened more, and have been happier. You city men are defeated mentally and morally by the turmoil. You rattle down to work, and rattle back again and have no healthy contacts with his fellow men. In a small town we live more slowly, more sanely and more pleasantly."

I've seen his bank-book. That carried convincing evidence. The boy is making good. Perhaps the rest of us would be the better off if from time to time, we sat down and dispassionately reviewed our cases.

"Many a good farmer has been ruined by a course in medicine," my old man used to say.

THE LISTENING POST

By JAMES W. FOLEY

If we were all plowboys it would be a prosy world. Provided the plowboy did nothing but plow and sow and reap and plow again.

If we were all musicians it would be a noisy world. Provided all the musicians did was to play upon musical instruments.

If we were all poets it would be a hungry world. Provided the poets did nothing but dream and write and dream again.

But the plowboy in these times is not necessarily held fast to his plow. He may look at the soil a good deal of the time. But he may look at the stars if he will.

And it is good for plowboys, to look at the stars. Just as it is good for the astronomer to look at the soil sometimes.

For there is knowledge and inspiration in the soil as well as in the skies. And a good deal more of the nutriment necessary to the survival of the human race. It is just as important to discover means for destroying a blight in wheat and cotton as it is to make calculations in infinite space.

Perhaps more so. Because by calculations in space we may grow learned.

But it is food we live and have our beings. And without food and being what use would we make of knowledge and learning?

For a young man to say that he is going in for agriculture or horticulture does not mean that he is going out of poetry and art and music and science.

It may mean that he is going deeper into them. For knowledge of poetry and art and science would make a better agriculturist or horticulturist.

Let every man strive for achievement as he will. But let him not forget his common humanity. Let us draw nearer together in our lives. Not farther apart.

Let us understand that the various industries and arts and sciences and efforts have their value. But the value is for the happiness and betterment of humanity.

Songs of the Poets

A JAPANESE MESSAGE TO GARCIA

By DR. FRANK CRANE

ELBERT HUBBARD wrote one thing that has become a classic. It was his Message to Garcia, the story of a soldier who was given a message to deliver to the Cuban general Garcia, and succeeded in delivering it in spite of apparently insurmountable obstacles. It was the ever fascinating tale of the triumph of the determined human spirit.

I have just heard an old Japanese legend that contains the same idea, and shows how eternal it is in the thought of man.

I heard it at Kyoto from a missionary who had spent eighteen years in the country and was versed in its lore.

Near Kyoto is the great Lake Biwa. Near this lake rises the mountain Omi Fuji. Omi is the name of the district in which it is. Into this lake runs a river and over it is a bridge, called Seta Hashi, which is still one of the eight sights of Omi.

It was across this bridge that lay the highway running from Kyoto to Tokyo, and along this road passed the merchants, the pilgrims and the cavaliers.

Now it seems that around the mountain of Omi there was a thousand-legged dragon. This dragon had a playful way of devouring now and then some daimio or lesser lord who might be going along that road.

Many a bold warrior had undertaken to slay the dragon, but every one of them had come to grief. Each had gone out bravely enough against him, only to be devoured by his fiery jaws.

At last a great hearted hero, Hidesato, undertook the task of ridding the land of its plague. He set out upon his expedition and got as far as the bridge, Seta Hashi, when he was met by a huge and fearsome monster, not the dragon himself but apparently one of his assistants.

This monster menaced Hidesato and glared at him with his hideous eyes as if to say, "You had better see whether you can tackle me before you essay to slay the king of dragons."

Hidesato regarded this monster and reflected. Should he attack him, should he turn and flee, or should he attempt to pass him by and reserve his strength to fight the dragon, which was the thing he had set out to do?

At last he determined that he would go on, that he would not assault this monster unless it first assaulted him. He rode forward, therefore. The monster mowed and belowed, but did not spring upon him.

When he reached the end of the bridge he looked back to see if he was going to be attacked in the rear, and to his surprise he saw, not the monster, but a little old man with a long white beard.

"Come back!" cried the little old man. "I am that monster whom you saw on the bridge and passed by. It was my purpose to turn you from the great adventure you had in mind. All those who have gone before you on such an enterprise have stopped to engage conflict with me and have been slain. You alone have had a mind that could not be deflected. Come with me and I will give you your reward."

The little old man then led Hidesato down through a subterranean passage to a castle deep under the river, and there gave him a magic bow and a poisoned arrow, the only weapon with which the dragon could possibly be slain.

With these Hidesato returned to the bridge, and standing upon it shot the arrow seven miles to Omi Fuji and slew the dragon.

This fable teaches, well, it teaches about the same lesson that is taught in the Message to Garcia.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

Spain's General Weyler, once known as "The Butcher," is said to be furious over the situation in Morocco. Evidently he still is an ill-tempered person.

Maintenance of conditions that would render a coal strike possible, while manifestly a folly, should also be classed as a crime.

Nothing is plainer than that great and unnecessary hardships are being inflicted by the immigration law.

One comforting feature of flood reports is that they always are worse than the facts justify.

The public will be glad to know that Mr. Jesse Taylor, a bandit of renown, has retired to a cell again.

For assault on a woman, a man who confessed guilt, has been sentenced to from "ten to fifty years." Why the "ten?"

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

GERMANY MUST PAY

[Jay E. House, in Philadelphia Public Ledger]

Certainly, Germany must pay. It is the rule of life. But Germany, whining and squealing under the lash of retribution, won't pay except at the point of the bayonet. Despite the fire of war through which it has passed, Germany has no sense of national morals, no ideal of conduct. It clings to the thought that it will be saved from the consequences of its acts by some form of hokum. The French are in position to apply the bayonet. They have the will to do it. If they maintain the pressure they'll get the money. For when Germany quits, it quits cold. And, beyond the peradventure of doubt, Germany can pay if it will.

And there is another point we wish to make in the connection: We are not interested in saving Germany. We don't care whether it is saved or not. The world would be just as well off—maybe it would be better off—if Germany were dismembered and tossed to the wolves.

That is the sort of hard-boiled individual we are, and those who deprecate our attitude have our permission to absorb all of the German propaganda they can assimilate.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

City papers recently printed the picture of a beautiful baby that had been deserted by its mother. The father, after a vain search for the wife, had killed himself. A picture of the mother also appeared. It was far more human in aspect than might have been expected. For the mother who deserts her child there is nothing pleasant to be said. Perhaps it is fair to state that by deserting, this one had performed the kindest act possible for the little one. If the mother desires to construe this into a compliment, she is welcome.

HENRY JAMES

Happily, to offset the repellent spectacle of an unnatural mother, lacking the good qualities of the brute of the jungle, there is the far more frequent spectacle of the devoted mother, ready to sacrifice herself as need may be. There also are many women eager to adopt the child left without parents. Owing to these the baby in this instance will be likely to have a real home.

The recreant mother cannot be a very happy person. She does not deserve happiness. The utmost that is to be hoped for her offspring is that she imparted no taint to it, and that having gone away, she will stay.

In the few days he was out of prison, Jesse Taylor, bandit of uncounted crimes, had stolen many thousands of dollars by violent methods. He is a young man with no ambition but to be an outlaw, and no possible place in the social scale save that of a vicious parasite.

Colorado has been the scene this season of a number of cloud-bursts. Anybody who has observed such phenomena at close range knows that the cloud bursts wipe open, quickly proving itself to have contained much moisture.

Cloudbursts are so startling in their suddenness and spectacular effect, that the first estimate of the damage they cause, almost invariably are too large. However, this time severe loss seems to have been inflicted.

People who remember the war with Spain also remember General Weyler. He was a Spanish commander of considerable atrocity. The term "Butcher" as applied to him was fairly descriptive.

Weyler wants to be appointed dictator over Morocco, and the Spanish won't permit it. It seems they are having acute trouble with the Moroccans, but have not reached the pitch of indignation that will permit the setting of Weyler on them.

A Salvation Army girl of Chicago is said to have been summoned to New York by her commander. There she will be asked to explain what she meant by bobbing her hair.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

Summer time is the hardest of all times to find things to keep children busy. The schools have closed and turned the children over to their families who discovered that the youngsters are perfect dynamos of activity who must be fed jobs as the price of domestic tranquility.

"Mom, can I go over to Fred's? Can I go over and play with Fred? Can I? I haven't anything to do over here. Can I?"

Uninteresting things like tidying the attic or sweeping the cellar or cutting the grass or pulling the weeds or turning the wringer won't help. They are adult jobs. The children want jobs of their own and by that they mean jobs that interest them because they touch their own activities.

The boys will clean off a vacant lot down to the last scrap if they are to use it as a baseball field, but should you ask them to clean it because it is unsightly and perhaps unsanitary, they will growl and scowl and drag themselves heavily to the task. In the first case it is something to do, in the second place it is something that has to be done. Two very different things.

But there are a good many things that children like to do and in self defense it is well to start them at some of them during the long vacation.

They love to get up a party with costumes and a picnic lunch. That means committees for everything and meetings and lots of errands and work. With that sort of party there is a parade, of course, and places of honor for the most popular or the most forward children of the group. But it will be something healthy to do.

Every town has some pet charity and the summer is the time to organize a little fair for it. The children will run it, of course. They must make things for it and arrange for the tables and for the entertainment and the Japanese lights and the ice cream and the windbells. No outdoor party is complete without windbells. They tinkle in the trees and suggest things like coolness and fairies and dancing spirits and spirits that might be up to anything on this gay occasion.

Making a scrap book is a fine summer job. So is painting and whitewashing, and laying a new floor in the barn or the garage. Picking apples and small fruits out on the farms is a fine job.

Going away from home under good supervision is the finest thing that can happen a lot of children. Be careful of the supervision. Little children and even the older adolescent children must not work long without rest and change of posture. A summer job must not become child labor.

"at up something" to keep the whole group of youngsters that will keep them healthy and educate them richly. Summer should not be wasted.

RUTHERFORD TELLS OF EVIL OF THE PRESENT

Saks at the People's Pulpit, Exposition
Park

The following address was delivered by Judge Rutherford, president of the International Bible Students' association, and People's Pulpit association, at Exposition park, Los Angeles Coliseum, yesterday:

ARMAGEDDON
"And he gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrew tongue 'Armageddon.'—Revelation 16:16.

The greatest crisis of the ages is upon the nations of earth. Sensing the coming explosion, statesmen of the world express themselves on this wise:

"1923 is worse than 1914."
"A new chapter opens in the history of Europe and the world, with a climax of horror such as mankind has never yet witnessed."

"We have come to the crossroads and no one knows the way out."

Fear has laid hold upon the peoples of all walks of life. And why? Because the old world has ended at which time Jesus declared there would be distress of nations with perplexity, men's hearts failing them for fear of what they see coming on the world. According to the Bible, the world of order of things under Gentile dominion really ended August 1, 1914. Jesus foretold that the nations at that time would rise against nation, followed by famine, pestilence and revolution. These things have been fulfilled since 1914. Many title attempts have been made to stifle the world troubles. God foretold their failure, and added:

"Take counsel together, and it shall come to nought. Isaiah 8:9-10.) And why? The answer is, because this is the day of God's vengeance, and his indignation is upon all nations.—Isaiah 34:1-8.

Referring to day in which we are living, Jesus declared there would be a great falling away from the faith by professed Christians. A fulfillment of this is before our eyes in all the denominational churches. The fundamentalists are making a desperate fight against the modernists; the latter opposing the Bible, denying man's origin, his fall, the ransom sacrifice and the presence of our Lord, and scoffing at His second coming. This is as Jesus said it would be. As in the days of Noah, so shall it be at the end of the world.—Matthew 24:37.

Armageddon was the great battle of Palestine. There Gideon and his army put to flight the Midianites, who in their distress and excitement destroyed each other. Gideon's hand pictured the Messiah, while the Midianites pictured Christendom. The battle of Armageddon foreshadowed the complete downfall of Satan's empire and the establishment of Messiah's kingdom.

Jehovah foretold that nations would assemble and bind themselves together, and that they should be destroyed.—Zephaniah 3:8.

There are three great agencies, dominated by evil spirits, that are gathering the nations to this mighty conflict. (Revelation 16:13.) They are: (1) Satan's organization bent upon the destruction of the Lord's anointed; (2) world rulers made up of the commercial and political giants supported by an apostate clergy, determined to rule mankind in behalf of the minority; and (3) a false system of religion which holds before mankind false doctrines and false hopes. Like frogs, they boast of their ability to bring peace and prosperity and order out of the chaotic condition. They prepare for war and appeal to the patriotism of the rank and file to induce them to enter the conflict, a certain class of the clergy joining in preaching the people into the trenches. This they do in a desperate attempt to hold the evil order of things together.

The Lord, as the antitypical Gideon, is turning on the light that the people may see the true situation. But the powers that be, disregarding God's Word, as the prophet foretells, will rush on to the conflict and "fall and rise no more, because of the sword which I will send among you."—Jeremiah 25:26-30.

The trouble will be followed by the establishment of peace and righteousness under the reign of the Messiah. It shall be a time of refreshing and blessing for mankind. (Acts 3:19-24.) Then, says Jesus, those who keep His sayings and obey His word, turning to righteousness and following the same, will live forever and not die.

Many ask: What shall we do? And the Lord's Word answers: "Before the fierce anger of the Lord come upon you . . . seek ye the Lord, all ye meek (teachable) of the earth . . . seek righteousness, seek meekness: it may be ye shall be hid in the day of the Lord's anger."—Zephaniah 2:2-3.

The church was organized in purity to represent the Lord. But under the leadership of selfish and ambitious men, influenced by the great adversary, it has degenerated, as now evidenced by the open fight between the fundamentalists and the modernists. Our sympathies are with the fundamentalists (John 8:44). In the denominational churches, however, are multitudes of good, honest, order-loving people, who have hope for a better day. They have come to faith in Jesus Christ as the Redeemer of mankind. They believe that He is the Son of God. They believe in the resurrection, and that the salvation of man depends upon the merit of Christ. They are sheep amongst wolves in the ecclesiastical system. The Lord loves them and is calling to them through His Word: "Come out from amongst the wicked systems, that ye be not partakers of their sins and receive not of their plagues."—Revelation 18:4.

The time has come for truth to triumph. The fight is on to the end. It is a battle between right and wrong, between truth and error. The forces of error are led by Satan, the god of this world, acting through his visible governing factors, an apostate clergy and of big business men and big politicians who hold religion as a cloak for selfish uses. The forces of truth are led by Christ Jesus, the Messiah, now here. All of those who in the light of this day willingly ally themselves with Satan in his nefarious work in fighting the Lord and His anointed, the Lord declares shall suffer a punishment like unto that which shall be visited upon Satan. All those who willingly ally themselves with Jesus Christ, the King of Glory, shall be brought through the time of trouble and, being obedient to righteousness, shall live forever.

In the name of Jesus Christ, the King of kings, we sound the alarm. We appeal to all those who have faith in God and His Word, who believe that Jesus Christ is His beloved Son and the Saviour of mankind, to separate themselves from the wicked systems, dominated by selfish men, and to take their stand upon the Lord's side and, doing this, receive the blessings of His kingdom which God has prepared for them. The millions now living that, becoming obedient to righteousness, shall never die, but live forever in happiness.

PAROLE LAW IS REPORTED EFFICIENT
WALLA WALLA, Wash., Aug. 27 (United Press).—The parole law of Washington is 93.6 per cent efficient, according to figures gleaned from the state penitentiary records. Furthermore, the data discloses that there were only four escapes from the institution during the past year.

While the escapes were kept to four, this does not represent the number of unsuccessful attempts to flee, as a number of prisoners sought to get away, but were halted. However, the record is pointed to with pride, as nearly 200 trustees worked outside the prison walls.

OREGON BIRD LIFE IS INCREASED BY PHEASANTS
EUGENE, Ore., Aug. 27 (U. P.).—Oregon bird life has been increased by a total of 7804 Chinese and Mongolian pheasants released from the state game farms so far during 1923, according to a report from the farm near this city.

A total of 23,963 eggs was gathered during the first four months of the year, and from these 13,522 birds were hatched. This number is said to be a very high average, as the loss of birds through unfertilized eggs, breakage, acoma and mortality of young, is always great.

'WEAK FAITH' IS TOPIC OF KRINGEL
Rev. Henry O. Kringel delivered a sermon at the services of the concordia Lutheran congregation Sunday morning on the topic "Weak Faith," taken from Matthew 8:23-27. The speaker said in part:

"Jesus had been busily engaged all day preaching and healing the sick. There was such a vast throng and so much to attend to, He had not found time to eat. When night came, the people still remained, and all that Jesus could do to obtain rest was to withdraw from them. He told His disciples to have a boat ready that He might cross the lake."

"And when He was entered into a ship, His disciples followed Him." Straightway Jesus made for the stern of the boat, where He laid down His weary head on an improvised pillow, probably made of a fisherman's coat, and worn out and fatigued as He was, He was soon fast asleep. Out went the craft upon the dangerous deep in the black night. But as they pushed from the shore, there was not the slightest indication of any impending danger. Safely did the boat glide along, driven by a gentle breeze. They had probably reached the middle of the lake, when suddenly, without the least warning, a squall was upon them. Behold, there arose a great tempest in the sea, inasmuch that the ship was covered with the waves: and they were in jeopardy of perishing. They had braved many a storm on this lake. But such tempest they most likely had never encountered before. They lost control of the ship. It is tossed up on the crest of the waves like a nutshell. The water dashes in, fore and aft, much faster than they can bail it out. It dawns upon them that they are lost. The boat must either be capsized or swamped. And there is their Master with them in the boat, resting in sweet repose, so fast asleep as not to be aroused by all the noise around Him—by the roaring of the storm and the splashing of the angry waves, and by all the jolting and buffeting caused by the rocking of the boat.

"They can no longer bear it. They came to Him, and awoke Him, saying, 'Lord, save us; we perish.' And what is Jesus' answer? 'Why are ye fearful, oh ye of little faith?'"

"So the great fault of the disciples in this storm was that they were of little faith; that their faith was not what it should have been; that their faith was weak. Having shown you last Sunday examples of strong faith, let me speak today of the 'Weak Faith,' and explain that the weak faith differs from unbelief, and that weakness of faith is a dangerous thing."

"The difference, then, between weak believers and unbelievers is simply this: While unbelievers ignore God altogether or sink into utter despair, weak believers will finally triumph over their temptations and sincerely call upon the Lord in prayer. While unbelievers fall to lay hold on God's grace and mercy, shown to the whole world in the sacrifice of His beloved Son, weak believers, though frightened and greatly disturbed, will cling to God's grace after help. And their trust is not in vain. For a bruised reed shall He not break, and a smoking flax shall He not quench."

"Now, since also a weak faith is true faith and has the promise of eternal life, a person might think that a weak faith is all that needs be desired. That is a grave mistake. Let me endeavor to show you that weakness of faith is a dangerous thing."

"Weakness of faith is surely not a state and condition in which a Christian should wish to remain. Did Jesus mean to praise His disciples when He said, 'Why are ye fearful, oh ye of little faith?' Was not this an outright reproof? Yes, indeed!"

"To this day Christians must follow Christ into the ship and upon the sea of this world. The waves dash over it; the sails are rent. Meanwhile, Jesus seems not to care for the fate of the ship. He sleeps. What I mean to say is this: Whosoever casts his lot with Christ, whosoever embarks with Him in the ship of life, and confesses Him before men, and sets sail for the beautiful shore of bliss hereafter under His guidance, must be prepared to meet with disastrous storms in this life;

ALL GLENDALE'S A STAGE, AND THE MEN AND WOMEN IN IT ARE MERELY PLAYERS FOR THE TIME BEING

That's What You'll Say When You See the Big Free
Movie Show at the New England Furniture
Company Store Tonight at 7:30

By O. L. KILBORN

There's a great movie show in Glendale tonight. Every actor in it is as natural as Joe Jefferson was in his palmiest days, and then some, for he is actually himself or she is herself. There are hundreds of these actors, all in costumes exactly suited to the part taken, with no make-up, and none of them show the slightest self-consciousness. There are men, women and children in the cast, and nearly all of them are Glendale people.

The performance opens at 7:30 tonight; there are no reserve seats or loges, standing room will be a premium and, listen! No admission fee is charged. How do I know all this? Because the first performance, identical in every particular with the one to be given tonight, was staged Saturday evening with great success and was witnessed by many delighted patrons. Where? At the New England Furniture company's beautiful establishment, 231 South Brand. Now you'll sure be there this evening to see this wonderful moving picture, in which every actor's face and form is as clear as if you met his or her real self face to face.

And you may find yourself looking at your own self in this remarkable picture, for everyone who attended the great drawing at this enterprising establishment last Thursday is in the picture, absolutely true to life and every action faithfully portrayed.

You remember, of course, this great drawing, in which five beautiful sets of silverware were given away in introducing to the Glendale buying public the Universal gas range, with perfected heat control, superior to all others on the market, baking with the smallest use of gas of any range known. It lasts a lifetime, is the claim of its manufacturers. The New England Furniture company has already disposed of a number of these ranges to satisfied customers.

For this novel feature which is giving such great delight to the store's many patrons, Manager Ball secured a Moviola, made in Pasadena and it certainly did the work marvelously well, recording faithfully every act and motion of every person who visited the store last Thursday afternoon to witness or take part in the drawing.

Readers of the Daily Press are advised to watch the columns of other surprises this up-to-date establishment has for them.

Summer Gambling Vogue This Year at Monte Carlo
By GUS M. OEHM
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

MONTE CARLO (By mail to United Press).—Gambling at the famous casino here is beginning to be an all-year-round proposition. Summer time is usually respite and the summer months are the time of the games of chance are played. But this summer, contrary to expectations, promises to break all records for attendance and gambling enthusiasm.

Every table every afternoon and evening is filled with gamblers—and they are not all tourists from the states, as one might think.

"The French themselves are sticking this summer," one of the attendants declared to the United Press. "Many of the big hotels in Nice and Monte Carlo, which always closed during the summer season before, are staying open this year because business is so good. We are getting a lot of Americans, but a look around the place will show you that the French are here in droves."

A look around proved that very thing. Admitted to the gambling halls without question when an American passport is presented, tourists find the place alive with the seekers after wealth—and most of them are French.

"I don't understand it," the informant declared, "unless the people are getting more reckless as time goes on. I guess it's the jazz age—folks seem to blame the jazz age for everything."

TACOMA MAY GET REGATTA
TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 27 (U. P.).—Possibility of bringing the 1924 Pacific Northwest International Regatta to Tacoma has been announced by Commodore Arthur Trust of the Tacoma Yacht club, who is bidding for the event.

"The place for this regatta has not yet been decided," Commodore Trust said, "and we are going to bring it to Tacoma if such a thing is possible, although we expect, and undoubtedly will have, strong opposition."

If it is not possible to secure this international event, the club will back a movement for a big rowing and canoe regatta here, it is assured.

to encounter all manner of tribulations. A weak faith would soon loose out.

"Therefore, let us be strong in the faith, and pray as did the disciples: 'Lord, increase our faith!' And to increase our faith in Christ we must diligently make use of the means of grace."

"Let us fight the good fight of faith and lay hold on the eternal life. And God grant that all believers hold out to the end, and finally receive the crown of victory for Jesus' sake."

ADVENTIST CAMP MEETING GROWS IN NUMBERS

Total at Gathering Totals
2,500; Strong Discourse Preached

New arrivals at the camp Saturday swelled the gathering on the grounds to 2500 at the annual Adventist campmeeting.

At a session of the California Conference action was taken in favor of purchasing or leasing a tract of land in Los Angeles or vicinity suitable for campmeeting use, thus securing a permanent location for these yearly gatherings.
There will be preaching at the camp each evening throughout the week.

That religious freedom is seriously menaced in this country at present was asserted by Rev. W. F.
Martin, who yesterday addressed an audience at the Adventist camp ground, Florence and Vermont avenues. Strong religious organizations, led by the Lord's Day Alliance, Rev. Mr. Martin said, are determined to obtain legislation to force their ideas of Sabbath observance upon the rest of the people; and laws are being sought in California and other states which would take from parents the right to say in what schools their children shall be educated. Already such a law has been enacted in Oregon, he stated.

Quoting from a copy of the Oregon statute, Rev. Mr. Martin said that as soon as it came into force, which would be in 1926, any parent or guardian of children between the ages of 8 and 16 years who have not completed eight grades of school work would be liable to a fine of $100 and imprisonment for 30 days if he failed to send such children to the public school; and each day's absence on the part of the child is to constitute a separate offense. The minister said the law aims at the abolition of church schools.

SANITARIUM NOTES ARE SELLING FAST

Those Who Want Gilt-edge Investment Recognize Splendid Opportunity

With so many stock investments on the market, oil mines and countless business ventures, the public is demanding an opportunity to place its money where there is an assurance of 6 percent and safety. Offered such an opportunity, people are rapidly taking up the unsold portion of $360,000 real estate gold notes, secured by first mortgage on the land, buildings, income and equipment of the Glendale sanitarium and hospital. These notes are authorized by the Superior court of Los Angeles county and their legality approved by the Title Guarantee and Trust company, also by Kemper Campbell, the Glendale and Los Angeles attorney.

These gold notes bear 6 per cent interest, payable semi-annually, and are exempt from the personal property tax in California. There are many newcomers here unfamiliar with the wonderful progress and prospects of the Glendale sanitarium. They have but to look over the wonderful new buildings, and taking into consideration the splendid site, to be assured of the future for the institution. Its present earning power is sufficient to retire the notes as they mature, while the new buildings, being financed by this issue, should more than double the earning power of the sanitarium.

The property of the institution, included in the first mortgage held by the trustee to secure this gold note issue, is conservatively appraised at more than twice the amount of the mortgage. In addition to the new tract, the corporation owns one-third of a large block of land in the center of Glendale, appraised at $150,000, and included in this mortgage.

The extensive new sanitarium is situated on the crest of a wooded knoll, in twenty acres of land. A wonderful panorama, soothing and restful to the eye stretches away below the hill. White-dotted towns, distant city spires, and far away the blue-grey of the ocean, from the far view. Everything seems to be in conspiracy to make this an ideal sanitarium site, surrounded by trees and set far enough away from the boulevard to avoid all traffic noise. The site is high enough to get the purest air with a faint "woody" tang from the surrounding shrubs and trees, just enough to give it the healing properties of mountain air. This is a splendid place for the ill and convalescing. Aside from the advantageous location, every modern bit of equipment will be installed in the perfectly arranged buildings.

Mrs. J. A. Harper of Chanute, Kansas, arrived in Glendale this morning and will spend the winter as the guest of her daughter, Mrs. W. C. Reith of 1101 East Wilson avenue.

Bacons Receive Ill News From Son in China

To Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bacon of 900 South Glendale avenue there came Saturday a cablegram from a far-off mission station in the hills of China announcing the death of the wife of their son, Wallace. It was only last November that a similar message conveyed the dread news of the death of this couple's only daughter, a girl of 13. So it is seen that these heroes of the cross are not exempt from sorrowful trial but are subject to all the ills that afflict frail humanity. But they labor on, sure of the crown of righteousness which the matchless Paul wrote from his lonely prison cell is "not for me only but comes to all who love His appearing."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Carroll and son Charles, Jr., of 320 West Burchett street, were dinner guests Friday night of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Putnam of 424 North Glendale avenue.

THE BATTLE

Did you do your best when the trouble came,
As you knew in your heart you could do it?
For whatever it was and whose was the blame,
It was yours to fight your way through it.
Did you grit your teeth and flash your eyes,
And fight from the time it started?
Did you double your fists and never say die,
Or were you only half-hearted?

When the crisis came, and the fight was hot,
And hotter with every minute,
I ask, did you do your best or not,
Did you put the whole of you in it?
Did you fight the foe with all your might,
Wherever your sword might find them,
Or were your blows just soft and light,
With nothing of strength behind them?

Whatever there is to try or do,
Do you put the best of you in it,
Do you stay till the fight is fought all through
With all the soul of you in it?
Did you ever in any trial of life
With all your strength fight through it?
If you haven't, when troubles or ills are rife,
Just double your fists and do it.

Nazarene Sunday School Growing

Sunday proved to be a red letter day at the Nazarene church. The attendance at the Sunday school was the largest in the history of the school. The pastor of the church, Rev. Scheidegger, preached at the afternoon service, using as a text Jeremiah 33:3, which reads: "Call unto me and I will answer thee, and show thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not." Rev. Scheidegger urged upon his hearers the necessity of always living in the spirit of prayer.

The subject at night was "Christian Perfection," the text being found in Phil. 3:3. The usual services will be held during the week, and we expect to worship in the tent next Sunday. The tent will be put up on the church lot on Acacia street near Glendale avenue some time this week.
